

Xledger delivers SaaS – based business system to Swilkenbridge

Press Release March 2011

Swilkenbridge's activities have expanded over the last few years and further expansion is expected, resulting in increased need for strict financial guidance and control. In order to streamline and improve governance and the provision of information the company has recently procured a new business system. The company wants to achieve higher quality and efficiency through increased automation, control and integration. They also wanted a system that was an effective tool in support and management of projects.

Managing Director at Swilkenbridge, Jenny Alfvén, says: "We chose Xledger primarily because of their integrating modules, flexibility, and support of both PC and Mac. It is important to us that our managers have access to real-time information so that they can get an overview of the progress of their respective projects without having to wait for monthly updates and budget reports. The fact that this solution also happened to be the cheapest option based on cost of implementation and usage can be seen as a great additional bonus."

Lars Lobelius, the Country Manager at Xledger AB says: "During our first year in Sweden our challenge was to make our target market understand that Xledger was a powerful and complete ERP system for them. Assisted by an experienced consultant, Swilkenbridge procured services that were based on specific organisational needs and requirements. All of our competitors provided installation-based systems. Our cloud-based system provided advantages, in addition to improved functionality that to our great joy led Swilkenbridge to become our customer in Sweden during our first year."
